Session 1: Getting to know you and confidentiality agreements

Refugee women in leadership:
Power through participation

Confidentiality

Confidentiality means that we all promise not to discuss anything we hear in the training without the permission of the person who tells the story.

Confidentiality

Confidentiality helps to build trust.

Confidentiality

It is a promise which we give to each other – the trainers, the participants, UNHCR, interpreters and NGO staff.

If we all agree to do this, then we can learn to trust each other and discuss things openly, because we know it will not be spread around the community or used in reports without our permission.

Group confidentiality agreement

We, the participants and facilitators of this Women's Leadership Training, agree to keep confidential any of the stories shared by individual women during this training.

Facilitators' confidentiality agreement

We, the facilitators, promise that any information that we gather as part of this Women's Leadership Training will be totally confidential.

We guarantee that any written reports, photographs and film produced from this training will not be published or shown without written permission from the women's organisations involved. No names will be used in any reports from this training.

If this information is used with your permission, you will be sent copies of the reports and multimedia presentations within two weeks of their publication.
